Women’s Retreat: Being Out of Order
Friday, March 18, 2016, 9 AM – 4 PM
Ursuline College, Pilla Student Learning Center
$50/person (includes retreat materials & lunch)
Facilitated by Carole Ganim ’61, Ph.D. & Maureen Connors ’61, Ph.D.

Have you been out of order or unruly in your lifetime? If so, this workshop is for you! You are invited to discover what it means to be out of order. Share women’s stories that inspire you to be unruly, and uncover the value of constructive out of order behavior and determine your next steps related to the world’s needs.

Participants will explore the times in their own life when they have been out of order and the consequences of those actions. They will identify what they have learned from their own behavior and that of other unruly people. Finally, attendees will gain an understanding of the value of constructive unruliness and develop a plan to implement the strategy in their own lives.
